

I had been looking for a home to buy in the Bangor area for over a year with no luck. My sister suggested I have a house built. She had seen Joe Brasslett's advertisement on the internet but didn't have his telephone number. After a search of the internet I found Joe's number and gave him a call. We set a day and time to meet at a home that was almost complete and I was very impressed. At first I thought he must be building the house for a family member, he was putting so many extras into it. However he was building it for a customer he had just met. The woodwork, the window frames and sills, the siding, and finish work - inside and out - just the overall care put into every aspect of the home showed so much quality I was really getting excited. I've had four houses built and was not sure I wanted to go through that ordeal again but I found Joe and his crew to be the exception in builders. These men work together to complete a project with skill and enthusiasm that is the trademark of Joe's business. I have recommended Joe to my family and my sister is having a home built. There is no way I can convey the full marvelous character of Joe and his crew in this testimonial. I suggest you give Joe a call if you are looking for a home that is solid as a rock and built by a person who really cares about his customers.
